

MURDER CONFESSED
IN MILWAUKEE.HOTEL FIRE WAS TO COVER
A CRIME.

Rndolph J. Peschmann, The Lessee of The Cream City Hotel, Admits That He Murdered Old Mrs. Schrum to Get Her Money—The Murderer Now in Jail.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 16.—Rudolph J. Peschmann, proprietor of the Cream City hotel, in which Mrs. Schrum was found dead after the building was partly destroyed by fire last Friday morning, has confessed that he strangled his aged guest for the purpose of robbing and afterward fired her room. He failed to secure the woman's money. Peschmann is now in jail.

Mrs. Schrum boarded at the hotel and was supposed to keep $30,000 or $40,000 in her room. She was 80 years old and weighed about two hundred. Peschmann went to her room, pounded her till she was insensible, threw her on the bed, bound her hands and feet, and then ransacked the room for money. He says he did not find any. Then fearing detection he threw Mrs. Schrum's lamp on the floor, setting the room on fire, and went down stairs. After the fire had burned a while Peschmann concluded to send in an alarm and save some of his furniture, as he had no insurance. The fire was soon put out and Mrs. Schrum's room was found in a condition which gave many clues to the police. This led to Peschmann's detection. Mrs. Schrum had a large sum of money and search is being made for it.

Although the police are convinced that Mrs. Schrum had the money in her room they are not satisfied that Peschmann found it and are inclined to believe with him that if he had found the money he would have allowed the fire to destroy all evidence of his crime before giving the alarm.

POLICE DISPERSE A MEETING.
Crowd of People at Ottumwa Urged to Demand Work at $3 Per Day.

OTTUMWA, IOWA, Jan. 16.—A public meeting was held in this city Saturday evening by workmen. The meeting was addressed by T. J. Bolts, a lawyer, who said that the workmen should compel the city to issue scrip to pay them for eight hours work a day at $3 a day, and then they should go to the city bankers (naming them) and make them honor the paper or take the consequences. Last night the same crowd assembled on a street corner, and one of their number, named Sparks, was mounted upon a box. He began a harangue, being loudly cheered. On the arrival of the police the crowd went to a hall in the vicinity, where they shouted "Vengeance on the rich."

MITCHELL'S BANK OPEN.
Few of the Old Depositors Withdraw the 10 Per Cent Due Them.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 16.—The Wisconsin Marine and Fire Insurance company bank reopened its doors yesterday. The event caused rejoicing among Milwaukee business men. Money fairly poured over the receiving teller's desk, and the number of old depositors who came to withdraw the 10 per cent due them under the agreement which made the resumption of the bank possible was very small.

Troops May Not Be Needed.

HURON, S. D., Jan. 16.—Reports of the trouble in the Black Hills mining districts show that while some trouble exists because of outrages perpetrated upon non-union men in the employ of the South Dakota Mining company, the situation is less serious than on Friday. It is thought that the worst is over. Gov. Sheldon has received no advices that troops would be needed to preserve order and protect property.

Thieves Saved From Lynching.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 16.—Constable Wilson attempted to arrest a family of chicken thieves by the name of Kastner at Thirty-eighth and Boyd streets, when they repulsed him with revolvers. The police were summoned and they found the house surrounded by angry neighbors who were on the point of breaking down the hastily constructed barricade to lynch them. The police dispersed the mob and arrested the thieves.

Hamilton's Water Power Enticing.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, Jan. 16.—Much interest is taken along the Mississippi river in the new water power scheme at Hamilton, Ill., south of here. Henry Albers, a wealthy citizen of St. Louis, has sent a representative to Hamilton in the hope of securing the right of way up the river front for another water power canal.

Beheads His Prisoners.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, via Galveston, Texas, Jan. 16.—Information has been received from the Rio Grande do Sul frontier that the insurgents have abandoned the siege of Bage, owing to the near approach of a strong government force which has been sent to the garrison's relief. It is said that Gen. Tavares before leaving Bage beheaded all the loyal prisoners he had made.

Shot Dead in His Home.

SALEM, Iowa, Jan. 16.—Harry Shriner was shot dead in his home near here last night. There was no witness to the tragedy except his brother Charley,

ELEVEN DIED ON THE LACKAWANA.
Details of The Wreck That Resulted So Horribly.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—A frightful accident occurred yesterday on the west side of the Hackensack bridge, on the Morris & Essex branch of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad. The train which leaves Roseville at 8 o'clock crashed into the rear of the Dover express, telescoping two cars. Eleven passengers in these two cars are known to have been killed and at least twenty-five are terribly injured. The Dover express passed through Roseville without stopping. The train which ran into the express is the regular commutation train. It pulled out of Roseville four minutes after the express had disappeared in the fog in the direction of New York. On approaching the bridge over the Hackensack river, the express slowed up but for what reason is unknown; but it is thought that the engineer could not see the signals because of the dense fog and that he slowed his train to avoid danger. The engineer saw the express when less than 200 feet from it. Although he reversed his engine he could not prevent a collision.

The engine of the Orange train smashed the two rear cars of the Dover train into pieces and plowed over the passengers, who by the force of the collision had been hurled from their seats, only to be crushed to death by the wheels of the Orange engine. The rear car on the Dover train was a combination smoker and baggage car, and the one in front of that an ordinary day coach. Every seat in both coaches was occupied by persons on their way to work in New York, and a number of passengers were in the baggage car. The passengers in the smoker had little chance to escape. They had no warning of the crash. Those in the day coach had a better opportunity. They plunged through the windows and crowded to the front door, with the guard of the Orange train engine only a few feet away. Most of those killed and injured were in the smoking car, and as the great engine crashed into the car among them they were toppled over by the heavy iron guard and those who were killed were crushed to death, literally ground to pieces.

It was fully five minutes after the crash before the passengers on the two trains could realize the full extent of the catastrophe. Then came the greatest confusion imaginable. The train hands led the passengers to the work of rescue. Three mangled bodies were pulled out of the wreck within ten minutes. The passengers crowded about and rendered valuable service in caring for the injured. Several men who attempted to assist fainted upon seeing the sickening condition of the bodies dragged out from under the wreck.

A singular feature of the wreck was that the first six bodies recovered were found wedged in between a mass of broken timber and the wheels of the engine. The bodies were frightfully mutilated. Limbs were dismembered and faces crushed beyond possible identification. The body of one victim is said to have been literally disemboweled. The scene of the accident was frightful. The dead and injured were piled up along the high embankment at the side of the railroad track. The forward cars of the Dover express were not wrecked, but the passengers were thrown from their seats and a number of them were bruised and injured.

The following dead have been identified:

—BROWN of Summit, N. J.
—ED MORRELL of Summit.
—RUNNER of Summit.
—TIMMONS of Summit.

DEBTS ARE GROWING
WITH CASH SHORT.FINANCIAL PROBLEMS CON-FRONT THE EMPEROR.

The Government Now Preparing Measures To Relieve The Pressure of the Land Owners—Reorganization of the Financial Policy Is the Only Way To Get Relief.

BERLIN, June 16.—[Special]—The emperor opened the diet today and pointed out the growing decadency in the estimates and the increasing demands of the empire on the individual states. He said these conditions could only be removed by the reorganization of financial affairs of the empire and increase the resources. He said the government was preparing measures to ameliorate the condition of the land owners.

DISPUTE OF COUNSEL.

Patrick O'Sullivan's Statement Objected to by Judge Wing.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Before the examination of witnesses in the Coughlin trial resumed yesterday State's Attorney Bottom gave the attorneys for the defense a type-written transcript of the interrogatories put to Patrick O'Sullivan by State's Attorney Longenecker in the Sheffield avenue station the day before his arrest. In the witness-room was Lieutenant George W. Hubbard, who was called to testify regarding statements made by Coughlin to himself and to Mayor Cregier. Coughlin was the first detective detailed on the case when the disappearance of Dr. Cronin began to cause comment, and it is said he might have arrested the conspirators then had he desired. At one time he had the man Smith, who is supposed to have driven the doctor to his death, under arrest, but released him, telling Capt. Schaeck, his superior officer, that he did not consider the detention of the man necessary. Almost the entire day was taken up by a wrangle between the attorneys as to the introduction of certain testimony, the court finally taking the matter under advisement.

So far, nothing has been heard as to Joe McLaughlin, beyond the fact that he had left Scotland and is now in Ireland. It is not probable that he will appear as a witness in the case, although it is possible that he may be here in time for the state to use him in rebuttal.

Discovery That Will Bring Wealth.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 16.—A solder that successfully joins aluminum to aluminum has been discovered. For over four years Robert M. Shearer has been at work trying to find such a solder. This has finally been discovered. The new solder will join teeth to aluminum for dental purposes. It will not be patented, as no risk will be taken in giving away the secret.

Thinks Silver Good Enough.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Representative Lane of Illinois yesterday introduced the following bill: "That all contracts for the payment of any sum of money, whether in gold, silver or coin, may be discharged by any money which is by law a legal tender for the payment of debts when the contract matures."

WOULD NOT CONFIRM
JUDGE HORNBLOWERTHE NOMINATION IS REJECT-ED BY THE SENATE.

He Loses by Six Votes--Hot Debate in the House on the Tariff--Messrs. Cockran, Reed and Others Take a Prominent Part--Notes From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—William B. Hornblower's nomination for associate justice of the Supreme court was beaten in the senate last evening by a majority of six. The majority of votes against confirmation were from southern and western states, though Voorhees, Lindsay of Kentucky, White of Louisiana, and others from that section supported Hornblower. Senator Palmer of Illinois voted for confirmation and it is stated that Senator Cullum was on the same side. The total vote was thirty against confirmation to twenty-four for.

DEBATE ON THE TARIFF.

The House Gets Down to Work in Earnest Yesterday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Tariff tinkering was begun in earnest by the house yesterday. The house may get away from Chairman Wilson a few times on some of the amendments, but if it does these will be only immaterial questions. Mr. B. F. Marsh of Illinois attacked the Democrats who were offering the amendments protecting the interests in their own districts in a most outspoken fashion. He also attacked the agricultural schedules of the bill. Mr. Marsh offered a substitute to Mr. Wilson's amendment. Wilson's amendment was to the tobacco schedule, to strike out the words "commercially known as," so as to make it read "On all leaf tobacco, or such part thereof as is wrapper tobacco, and suitable for cigar wrappers, if unstemmed $1 per pound; if stemmed, $1.25 per pound." Mr. Marsh proposed a tariff of 25 cents a pound on unstemmed Sumatra tobacco and 35 cents a pound when stemmed.

Mr. Payne (N. Y.), one of the republican members of the ways and means committee, offered an amendment which provided that if any portion of any tobacco imported in any bale, package, or bulk, should be suitable for cigar wrappers, the entire amount of tobacco contained in such bale or package shall be dutiable if not stemmed at $2 per pound; stemmed at $2.75 per pound. Payne's amendment was lost—yeas, 70; nays, 170. The question was then put on the amendment offered by Mr. Wilson and it was agreed to by a viva voce vote. Marsh's substitute was then defeated.

The next amendment offered by Mr. Wilson was to insert the words "New Zealand hemp" and to strike out in the same paragraph the words, "and cables and cordage made of hemp," so that the paragraph would read, "cables, cordage, and twine (excepting binding twine, composed in whole or part of New Zealand hemp, thistle, or Tampica fabric, manila, sisal grass or suna), 10 per cent ad valorem." The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment offered by Mr. Wilson was to insert the words "including all cotton duck," so as to put that article on the 35 per cent list. This amendment was also agreed to.

The next amendment was to insert "and sweat leathers, bindings, braids, and tips when cut to lengths for trimming felt or wool hats." The amendment gave rise to a heated discussion.

Mr. Cockran (dem., N. Y.) asked whether the rate of wages depended on the trades unions or whether it depended on the law of supply and demand.

"You must first," Mr. Payne replied, "give the manufacturer the ability to pay the wages as a conditional precedent."

Mr. Cockran asked whether Mr. Carnegie and the proprietors of the Homestead mills had not abundant means to meet the demands of the laborers when the strike occurred there.

Mr. Payne said that he did not know, as he was not familiar with Mr. Carnegie's business.

A very lively discussion ensued between Messrs. Payne and Cockran at this point, and Mr. Cockran in a brilliant speech attacked the policy of protection. At its conclusion the Democrats on the floor broke out in tumultuous applause, which was continued in spite of the efforts of the chairman to restore order.

Then Mr. Reed (rep., Maine) answered Mr. Cockran. He blamed the policy of the Democrats in attempting to change the economic system of the country for the present depression and argued that the theory of wages being dependent upon the law of supply and demand was exploded.

What republicans meant to do, the said, was to elevate the market of this country by giving higher wages to labor and thereby constituting a market as broad as American production. It was not the arbitrary fixation of markets, but it was the growth of intelligence, the growth of desires and wants on the part of the laboring population that forced markets. There was a tremendous struggle going on between the demand of the public for lower prices and the demand of the workingmen for higher wages and shorter hours. And the democratic party proposed to bring the laborer in contact with a lower civilization without protection. It proposed to make that struggle absolutely impossible on the part of the laborer and to crush him. "But, thank heaven," Mr. Reed exclaimed, "the success and good fortune and prosperity of the laboring man of America do not depend upon those men who rend the heavens with shouts of his praise, but on the laws of the Lord God Omnipotent."

Mr. Powers (rep., Vt.) was the first speaker at the night session. He protested against the Wilson bill in general and against the lumber and granite schedules in particular.

Mr. Born (rep., Minn.) then spoke in opposition to the bill, advocating a novel scheme for free trade or reciprocity, whichever it might be called, which provided for the free admission of foreign goods in barter for home agricultural products.

Mr. Hudson (dem., Kan.) defended the provisions of the Wilson bill, and at 10:10 the house adjourned.

The ways and means committee had a long session at the treasury department last night, lasting until 11 o'clock. It was decided to introduce an amendment to the Wilson bill to the effect that wool would go on the free list Aug. 1, 1894, and that the reductions on woolen goods should go into effect Dec. 1, 1894.

Hawaii Is Not Debated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Between the executive session in the senate and the tariff in the house the Hawaiian matter escaped discussion. It is said that the queen expects at least $1,000,000 damages. The immediate question which congress will take up as to the recognition to be accorded the Hawaiian government. Judge Holman has agreed not to press his resolution for a protectorate on assurance from the chairman of the foreign affairs committee that the subject will come up as soon as the tariff bill is voted on, and that a satisfactory resolution will be reported.

Important Land Bill Approved.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The house committee on public lands decided to report favorably on Representative McKee's bill that it shall be lawful for the commissioner of the general land office to sell for not less than $2.50 per acre any insolated tract of the public domain which it would be proper to sell after thirty days' notice by the land officers of the district in which land may be situated; provided that lands shall not become isolated until they have been subject to homestead entry for three years after surrounding land has been entered.

Illinois-Iowa Boundary Case.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The long-standing boundary dispute as to the course of the river where the Keokuk and Hamilton bridge crosses is still open. Chief Justice Fuller yesterday, on behalf of the Supreme court, set aside the confirmation of the report of the commissioners appointed to fix the boundary. Attorney General Moloney several months ago asked the court to vacate the order. This was done yesterday on the ground that it had been "imprudently" entered.

GOOD OUTLOOK IN ST. LOUIS.

Larger Number Employed Than When the Census was Taken in 1890.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 16.—General satisfaction is expressed in commercial circles over the report of the state labor commissioner of his canvass of the factories of the state, which has just been completed. The returns, so far as St. Louis is concerned, show that in the face of the general cry of men out of work the manufacturing are finding employment for a larger number of men than when the census was taken in 1890. Taking four staple manufactures as a type, it is shown that the tobacco and cigar hands have increased from 3,968 to 4,758, the furniture and cabinet makers from 2,830 to 3,675, the brewery employees from 2,870 to 3,200, and the shoemakers and repairers from 3,347 to nearly 3,800. The percentage of increase varies from 20 to 35 per cent. The returns are the result of personal investigation and not of a canvass through the mails.

SURPRISE ON KOETTING.

The Bank Deficiency Was $1,376,000 at Time of Failure.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 16.—A deficiency of $1,376,000 existed in the assets of the South Side Savings bank the day before it suspended, according to the testimony of August P. Conrad, who was a witness yesterday afternoon at the trial of Banker Koetting. Mr. Conrad is a banker and expert accountant, who has been employed in an investigation of the affairs of the bank since it closed. He produced in court a statement of the bank's condition as he found it. The statement shows a deficiency of $401,136. Most of the assets of the bank he characterized as worthless. Schlesinger's paper was worth about 5 cents on the dollar.

Want to Arbitrate the Fight.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 16.—Late last night Manager Bowden went to Tallahassee to see the governor to have the matter fully decided as to the legality of the Corbett-Mitchell fight, it being his idea to present the case and leave the decision to five lawyers. This will settle the question at once the friends of the club think, and they are jubilant over it, while the friends of the governor say he will never consent to have it arbitrated.

Ex-United States Senator Dead.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 16.—Word has been received here that Henry M. Rice, one of the first United States senators of Minnesota, died at San Antonio, Texas, yesterday, aged 78 years.

OF PROF. PORTER.HANDSOME PIECE OF STATU-ARY FOR THE COLLEGE.

The Gift Made by the Alumni Association and Formally Presented to the Institution by Professor Salisbury, of the Chicago University, Last Evening.

BELOIT, Jan. 16.—The alumni of Beloit College have purchased from a noted sculptor a marble bust of Professor Porter and last night at chapel Professor Salisbury, of the Chicago University, formally presented it to the college.

GEAR WINS EASILY.

He Will Be the New Senator From the State of Iowa.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 16.—Congressman John H. Gear was nominated for United States senator to succeed Senator Wilson at the joint caucus of republicans held last night. He will be elected by the legislature. The nomination was on the third ballot and the vote was as follows: Gear, 57; Hepburn, 13; Stone, 11; Cummins, 10; Perkins, 11; Lacey, 6; Coffin, 1. Necessary to choice, 57. After the formal opening proceedings the motion of Senator Brewer to proceed to the nomination of a United States senator was carried and Endicott of Tama nominated Mr. Gear. Chantry of Mills named Stone, Blanchard of Mahaska named Lacey, Cheshire of Polk named Cummins, Burnquist of Webster named Coffin, Sawyer of Woodbury named Perkins, and Senator Finn named Hepburn. The nomination of the different candidates was simply by name and there were no speeches.

After the result had been announced and the enthusiasm had somewhat subsided Judge Blanchard moved that the nomination of Mr. Gear be made unanimous. This motion was seconded by representatives of each of the candidates and the motion was carried.

ENDS IN COMPROMISE.

Neither of New Jersey's Contending Senates Wins the Fight.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 16.—Both the republican and democratic senates of New Jersey met last night. The attorney-general's opinion was not presented to either body, but it was learned that it recognizes the democratic senate composed of nine hold-over democrats and four hold-over republicans. This is declared a constitutional body. This is a victory for both sides, although it gives the advantage to the democrats. All was peaceful last night, but the crowd was immense, and upon the slightest provocation a great row would have resulted.

Local Option Measures in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 16.—In the house yesterday afternoon Representative Sawyer (rep.) of Sioux City introduced a local option bill. It is a county option measure, and provides for the expression of the people by elections. Mr. Sawyer also introduced a bill to regulate the manufacture of liquors in the state. It provides for the manufacture and transportation and wholesaling in quantities not less than fifty gallons, but prohibits the sale in the building where manufactured or in any building adjoining. Representative Chassel (rep.) of Le Mars has a local option bill which he will introduce in a few days.

Gov. Waite Asks for Action.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 16.—Gov. Waite has sent a letter to Judge Hallett of the United States district court regarding the plight of the employees of the Acheson road, appealing for prompt action. Mr. Colbrann unofficially said the pay car will start out at once to relieve their distress and that the delay was due to the inability of the receivers to get in touch with the business of the system within so short a time.

Business Illegal for Eight Years.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 16.—A careful investigation into the methods of the insolvent Children's Endowment society discloses the fact that it did business for a period of over eight years in this state illegally, and during that time the fact was overlooked by the insurance commissioner and was not known by the public.

DANCED $281 WORTH FOR THE HOSPITAL.

CHARITY BALL A COMPLETE SUCCESS IN EVERY WAY.

Handsome Sum Realized From the Sale of Tickets and the Auction of Contributed Articles Nets $72 More for That Good Institution--Some of Those Present.

OG, mist and mud couldn't keep the throng from Janesville's fourth charity ball. They poured out to do their part toward supporting the city hospital--to lend a helping hand to the city's poor. They contributed liberally. Something like $281 were the receipts for the evening from all sources.

And yet the high moral purpose of it all might easily have been overlooked. The dancers harbored no sober thought of responsibility, their feet had cast off the leaden sandals of care. For five hours Terpsichore was their leader, and six young men in swallow tails were his priests. How earnestly these six priests, yeelp "floor managers," strove may be gathered from the life-like illustrations appended.

Very little was spent for decorations this year. It was determined to insure first-class music, but outside of that keep expenses at the lowest possible notch. Master Johnny Smith--he of the clarion tone and the facile fiddle bow--looked after the music, and the rest was left to the dancers.

Eight o'clock sharp was announced as the hour for beginning but this rule was not followed. People came late--that is late for an "early candle light" affair. Eight o'clock saw less than twenty-five in the Armory. At twenty minutes after eight Secretary Hazelton at the door was taking pasteboards with both hands and W. H. Greenman in the ticket office was making change with his teeth, while he heaped the silver up in a mound at each side. The only functionaries who were inactive were the reception committee.

He Wanted to be Received. "Doesn't my ticket entitle me to be received by some body?" asked one complaining young man.

As a matter of fact the reception committee has been but a matter of form at the last two charity balls, and this time it was even more so. There would have been little to do had the committee been in service, as everyone knew everyone else and had no need to be made "at home."

Young and old met on an equality. Gray and white heads were scattered among the blonde, the black and the auburn. Not a whit did the old folk yield to the younger ones, either in vivacity or good looks.

Dancing began at 8:30 and there was no lull until 10 o'clock. Then came the auction. A bugle call from the orchestra was the signal note, and Capt. Pliny Norcross mounted the platform as auctioneer.

"What am I offered for this box of cigars?" he asked. "Two dollars," said George McKee.

"Sold!" "Who wants five bushels of potatoes?" Mr. McKee wanted them also, and gave five dollars.

"Here's something that you young men ought to have; something that would make you feel better if you used it more," as he held up an old fashioned wood saw with a pretty red frame. Ogden H. Fethers' eyes glistened.

"A dollar and a half" he remarked anxiously. "So it!" said Mr. Norcross, and the lawyer looked supremely happy.

Half a Ton of Coal Sold Quickly. "This order calls for half a ton of coal and a barrel of salt; how much am I offered?"

"$5.00," said R. Valentine, but C. C. McLean said "$5.35," so he carried out the ashes.

"Here's a piano, I think," remarked the auctioneer, as he held up a ex-phone and G. M. McKee got it for ten cents.

"Here's a whip worth fifty cents; what am I offered?"

"One dollar," said Mr. Fethers, who immediately gave it to George McKee, remarking "that this will replace the one I broke last summer."

M. Murphy got a box of red carnations for sixty cents.

A sack of flour was sold to Ogden H. Fethers, R. Valentine and G. M. McKee, all of whom gave it back. Then Mr. Norcross bid a dollar himself and they made him pay up on the spot before he had time to return it. Then J. H. Gateley bought all four sacks for $5. Charles Levy gave a quarter for a pair of skates. Ogden H. Fethers gave $13 for a handsome chair donated by G. W. Kildow, after A. M. Valentine bid $12.

"Frank H. Baack bought out Tiffany's world's fair exhibit" said Mr. Norcross as he exhibited a hen's egg diamond. "This sample is worth $100,000," he explained. "What am I offered?"

Baldwin Owns a Kohinoor.

"Two dollars," said B. H. Baldwin, absent-mindedly and he got it without delay.

A bottle of olives made lively bidding and C. S. Putnam got it for $1.25 but in ten minutes all he had left was the bottle and cork. A. M. Valentine bought the toilet case and gave it back whereupon they sold it to J. V. Norcross. The sale continued until all the articles were gone, the list and donors being as follows:

G. W. Kildow--Handsome oak and leather arm chair.

W. T. Vankirk--Four sacks Hodson's patent flour.

Becker & Woodruff--Pair shoes.

Palmer & Stevens--Four boxes of soap.

Prentice & Evenson--Gent's toilet case.

Richardson Shoe Company--Pair of slippers.

Lowell Hardware Company--Pair of skates, two whips and buck saw.

J. H. Gateley, agent--One-half ton of coal; one barrel of salt.

F. C. Cook & Co.--Japanned pin tray.

J. L. Spellman--One hundred "Red Cross" cigars.

Ed. O. Smith & Co.--Fountain pen.

F. H. Baack & Company--"Diamond" stud.

King & Skelly--Mirror.

Mrs. William Sadler--Knit shawl.

R. M. Bostwick--Five bushels of potatoes.

Frank D. Kimball--Table.

Tarrant & Osgood--Bottle of olives.

S. C. Burnham & Co.--Aluminum cigar case.

F. S. Winslow--Four satin sacks "Gold Medal" flour.

J. M. Bostwick & Sons--Book of World's Fair views.

Putnam Bros.--Upholstered corner chair.

Auction Netted the Poor $72.60.

The net profit was $72.60 which went to the Hospital Association. This with the ticket sales, $47.50, bought the total up to $281.

Captain Norcross then gave Captain Vankirk the policeman's club presented by the Janesville Hay Tool Company and when Mr. Vankirk got through with the votes Officer McGinley had won, the vote being:

W. E. Evenson 72

J. W. Hogan 25

T. L. Acheson 8

John Kruse 6

John F. Sweeney 1

Total 142

The gold watch offered to the lady who sold the most tickets went to Miss Nellie Peters who sold 120. Miss Adgie Alden will wear the diamond ring donated by D. W. Kolle for selling the second largest number of tickets, her total being 561. Miss Logerman sold 261 and Misses Gertie Smith, Minnie Rausch, Maud Fellows and Dora Ruch are entitled to favorable mention.

Refreshments were served in the gallery during the evening, half the proceeds from the sherry, coffee and other good things going to the hospital. In the same way that nobody went hungry, nobody had occasion to go without flowers, Cliff Best having a flower stand in one corner of the smoking room.

PEOPLE WHO SHARED THE FUN.

Many Guests Were From Other Cities--Names of Those Present.

Quite a number of the guests last evening were from other cities. Before the evening was over they met most of Janesville, for the city was well represented. Among those who joined in the dance or looked on from the card tables and "conversation corners" were:

EYE AND EAR SPECIALIST

His Office Is Thronged With People Every Day and His Practice Is Increasing Rapidly.

Call And See Him IN THE WILCOX BLOCK.
At His Office—

Janesville, = Wisconsin.

Like a Frenchman.
The Boston Courier has a new story of French politeness. At an evening gathering the subject of ladies' ages came up.

"And how old should you take me to be?" asked a fine-looking dame of the gentleman at her side.

"Pardon, madame, but I cannot guess," he answered.

"Then, monsieur, I will tell you. Yesterday was my birthday, and I am just—"

"Indeed, but you don't look it!" said the gallant gentleman, with an eloquent shrug, breaking in upon her before she could finish the sentence.

What It Indicated.

Pete Amsterdam—I saw Robinson was getting a pretty big load on and spending his money right and left, so I asked him to lend me twenty dollars, just to save what I could for him, don't you see?

Hostetter McGinnis—Did he lend you the money?

"Oh, yes."

"Heavens! He must have had a load on."—Texas Siftings.

A Practical Token.

Traveler—Might I ask you to write something in my album?

Merchant—With pleasure; but I can't think of anything just now.

What should I put down, do you think?

Traveler—Write: Please send by return one hundred yards of chevot. In token of remembrance. Pip & Co.—Fliegende Blatter.

A Fatal Objection.

"I can't understand why you engaged yourself to Arthur Hally, who possesses neither good looks nor fortune, when you had your pick of half a dozen rich and handsome fellows."

"The others made me tired, Laura. Arthur was the only one of them who hadn't been to the fair."—Judge.

Found at Last.

Employment Agent—How does your wife like that girl I sent her?

Mr. Upton—That girl must be an angel straight from Heaven. She's been with us a week and my wife hasn't made a complaint.—N. Y. Weekly.

An Unexpected Pleasure.

Neighbor (rushing in)—Quick, man! Your house is on fire,—but you may be able to save it yet.

Suburban Resident—Let her burn!—it'll be the first time this house has been warm since I've lived in it.—Puck.

Their Superiority.

At the dog show:

We're told that true love never runs smoothly in its course.

We know a case, however,

Which breaks the proverb's force;

A pair lived in Chicago

Six months without divorce.

Misunderstood.

"Have yez any shoes that will fit the little girl?" inquired a son of the Green isle of a dapper young clerk in a Washington street store the other day.

"Yes, sir," was the reply; "we carry a full line for children's wear. Step this way, please. French kid?"

"No, be gobs; she's Irish."—Boston Herald.

An Expensive Drug.

Angry Man—That prescription you gave me to have filled for my wife cost me a pretty sum. My dog ate it.

Physician—It certainly will not cost you much to have it refilled.

Angry Man—That is not the point. The dog died; and he cost me a hundred dollars.—Puck.

Always Get the Best.

Mrs. Youngluy (at the grocer's for the first time)—I want some egg-plant.

Grocer—Yes, ma'am.

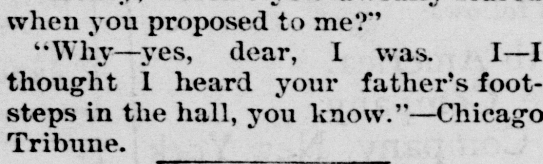

Mrs. Youngluy (severely)—And I want some that is fresh laid, too.—Chicago Record.

It Was Risky.

"Henry, weren't you awfully scared when you proposed to me?"

"Why—yes, dear, I was. I—I thought I heard your father's footsteps in the hall, you know."—Chicago Tribune.

COMING DOWN WITH THE DUST.

—Life.

Those Little Economies.

"So you had a church wedding?"

"Yes."

"I think church weddings are too expensive."

"No—they're not half so expensive as having to buy new furniture for a home wedding."—Vogue.

A Tenor's Fate.

"Did you know that Sig. Smithini's voice had completely given away?"

"There! you know that I always told you that he'd have to give that voice away, for nobody would think of buying it."—Brooklyn Eagle.

No Wonder.

"He's a great admirer of Miss Cubleys. And he's such a thin, withered, dried-up specimen of a man!"

"I've noticed that when she speaks to him he seems a good deal—um—rattled."—Chicago Tribune.

Quickest Route to California.

"I have used Birney's Catarrh Powder personally and in my family for several months, and find it the best remedy I have ever used. I can certainly recommend it to anyone afflicted with catarrh of the nose."

Truly yours, A. M. Post.

REV. FATHER CLARKE, Sec'y to the Rt. Rev. Bishop of Columbus, Ohio, writes:

"I cannot say enough for your Powder. It has cured me of an aggravated attack of catarrh when nothing else could help me. Am delighted with it. All my friends to whom I administered samples are quite enthusiastic over it. The good Sisters speak most encouragingly of their use of it in the hospital under their care. I will do anything to speak a good word for the remedy to help others who are suffering."

Yours with many thanks, Rev. Father Clarke.

G.A. R. NOTICE

We take this opportunity of inform ing our subscribers that the new Com missioner of Pensions has been ap pointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the adminis tration of pension affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U

S. soldiers, sailors, and their heirs,

take steps to make application at once,

if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filling of their claims in case there should be any future pension legisla tion. Such legislation is seldom retro spective. Therefore it is of great import that applications be filed in the de partment at the earliest possible time.

If U. S. Soldiers, or their widowed children, or parents desire information in regard to pension matters, that should write to the Press Claims Com pany at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address:

IS WILFULLY BLIND.

The last issue of Harpers Weekly contains some graphic illustrations and a column article on the poor of Chicago, stating on authority of the Federation of Labor that one hundred thousand idle workmen are walking the streets of the great city, begging in vain for work.

On the editorial page of the same issue is a lengthy effusion on "The Tariff and Wages" in which the writer attempts to prove that the depression of hard times is in no way associated with the tariff, that these conditions are simply the result of the panic of last summer.

It will be apparent to every intelligent reader that the writer of this kind of nonsense is a man of limited experience and by no means a close observer. If he will spend the time to make a list of the manufacturing industries in any part of the country and especially through the iron districts he will be compelled to believe, and admit if honest, that the tariff has more to do with idleness, than all other causes combined. If not too prejudiced to believe another self without truth he will be forced to admit, that free trade or any serious cut in the tariff means a reduction in wages.

It is no longer wages with the 3,000,000 men who have been out of employment for six months. It is a question of a chance to work at any price. The tariff uncertainty has already worked this mischief with the labor of the country.

The impractical writer of labor theories, has doubtless escaped a cut in salary, and in no condition to talk or write on a question so far removed from his environments but it is nevertheless true that the labor of the country not only west but east, is today clamoring for work, and not for wages.

If a democratic congress possesses the discernment to grasp the situation it will speedily take a stand on the tariff that will set in motion the idle machinery of the country, and place within the reach of honest toil and honorable livelihood. Work at some price and not wages is the thing of vital import today.

An Unseen Enemy

Is more to be dreaded than an open and visible one. That subtle and lurking foe, which under the generic name of malaria manifests itself, when it clutches us in its tenacious grasp, in the various forms of chills and fever, biliousness, intermittent, du bague or ague cake, can only be effectually guarded against by fortifying the system against its insidious attacks with Fowler's Stomach Bitters, a thorough antidote to the poison of miasma in the system, and a safeguard against it thoroughly to be relied upon. In the event of a malarious attack, avoid poisoning your system with quinine, and use instead this wholesome remedy, unobjectionable in taste and far more efficacious than any drug. Use the Bitters for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney complaints and rheumatism.

The Puzzle Solved.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing and disgusting ills that afflict the human race, and the records show no case of radical cure of catarrh by any of the many treatments until the introduction of Cream Balm a few years since. Success of this preparation is most gratifying and surprising. It is without it.

A TRUE BIT OF LIFE.

HOLDING THE MIRROR, AS IT WERE, UP TO NATURE.

Just How Perfectly True It Is You Will Acknowledge—After You Have Read Both the Beginning and the End.

A writer has said that the sorrows greatly exceed the pleasures of life. This is not so, at least it should not be so.

Most of our sorrows and troubles come from ill health. Make yourself strong and well and you will find the joys of life far outnumber its troubles.

People who are out of health, who, while not exactly sick, are always ailing, allow themselves to be depressed in mind, in other words to despair of ever again being in perfect, sound and vigorous health. They think that because they have not been cured by trying many things that there is no cure for them.

Just how absurd and silly this is, is well expressed in a bright letter and hope-inspiring letter from one of our readers, Mrs. E. E. Goodenough, of 578 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. We heartily commend her words to those who are kept out of perfect happiness and enjoyment of life by not being in good health.

"For many years," writes Mrs. Goodenough, "I have suffered with stomach and liver trouble, together with poor circulation, great dizziness and faintness which increased in severity and frequency in spite of all efforts to relieve them.

"I almost despaired of ever getting any better, when I was induced to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and after taking less than two bottles I feel as if I had a new lease of life. Am able to eat without distress, and sleep well. I can and do most heartily recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura, and take great pleasure in telling of the good it has done me."

There are many thousands like her, and they can all be restored to health and happiness by the same means, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is purely vegetable and harmless and will surely make you well.

It is the discovery and prescription of a noted physician, Dr. Green, of 35 W. 14th Street, New York, the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted in all cases free of charge, personally or by letter.

The Great Chinese Fair.

Prominent Chinamen on the Pacific coast are predicting a big exodus of their countrymen from this continent and all other lands to the celestial empire within a year or two. They will go to be present at the big fair which occurs there once in sixty years and at which every subject of the great emperor tries to be present. "Hundreds of thousands, maybe millions of Chinese from all parts of the empire and the world will be there," says Interpreter Pon Se, of San Francisco. "All nations will be invited and everybody ought to go, for it will be the sight of a lifetime." The fair, he says, was founded many centuries ago and has been held regularly since. He is not sure of the exact date, but it is within two years. Great preparations are being made for it all over the empire, and announcement of it will soon be made to the world.

Where the Monkey is Deficient.

The monkey's intelligence has never been able to arrive at a point which enables that animal to achieve the untiring of a knot. You may tie a monkey with a cord fastened with the simplest form of a common knot, and unless the beast can break the string or gnaw it through, he will never get loose. To untie the knot requires observation and reasoning power, and though a monkey may possess both he has neither in a sufficient degree to enable him to overcome the difficulty.

Sizes in Picannettes.

Once asked my old dorky the age of the two boys he left behind him in old "Kaintuck." Thoughtfully, he polished his bald, old skull a moment and then said: "Dere's one of 'em big enough to plow and de adder's two sizes smaller."

SOME WELL KNOWN FACES.

A Woman Dentist in Africa.

Bishop Taylor, the founder of the Methodist Episcopal missions in Africa, has been trying for several years to get a proficient dentist to go out to his diocese and fix up the teeth of his missionaries. He finally induced Dr. Jennie M. Taylor to take a special course in dentistry and go out with him on his next visitation to his African diocese. They are now on their way thither together. Dr. Taylor is a daughter of Rev. A. E. Taylor of Dr. Jennie M. Taylor, Martinsville, Pa., a younger brother of Bishop Taylor. She is a very learned young woman of 26, entitled to write A. B., A. M., M. D. and D. D. S. after her name. She is small in stature, but robust, and has no fear of the hardships she will have to endure on her long trip, which will include sojourns in Liberia and the province of Angola and a voyage of several hundred miles up the Congo.

Not Conclusive Evidence. "Has young Bondeclipper proposed yet?" asked a Harlem mother of one of her numerous unmarried daughters. "Not yet, but I think he is going to pretty soon. There are some pretty strong indications. He has orange blossoms on his mind."

"I'd like to know why you think he has orange blossoms on his mind?" "When we were at the soda water fountain yesterday evening he took orange phosphate."—Texas Sittings.

Horrible Accident. "Ain't you working on the Bugle any more, Brown?"

"No. They fired me for being absent-minded. I was going through the mail sorting out the poetry, and accidentally declined with thanks a five-dollar subscription."—Indianapolis Journal.

Blood Poisoning

"Twelve years ago my wife was picking raspberries when she scratched herself on a briar, the wound from which soon developed into a running sore, between her knee and ankle. We tried medical skill on every side, with no effect. About a year ago she read of Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to try it herself, and while taking the first bottle she felt better and continued with it until today she is entirely cured and better than ever. The sore was healed up in seven weeks. Her limb is perfectly sound." J. N. AUGENBAUGH, Elletts, York Co., Pa.

STATE EXPERTS END THEIR TESTIMONY.

DRS. KEMPSTER AND HECKTOEN ON THE STAND.

Medical Testimony for the State Closes with the Examination of the Milwaukee and Chicago Witnesses—Mrs. Stone Dead When Put in the Cistern.

Dr. Walter Kempster of Milwaukee, and Dr. Ludwig Hecktoen of Chicago, ended the medical testimony for the state in the Ashton case today. Dr. Kempster listened to the reading of a hypothetical question covering the testimony in the case and said that the facts stated showed Mrs. Stone to have come to her death by strangulation. She was dead, he testified, before her body entered the cistern. The injuries found upon her were sufficient to cause death. Very little time was consumed in Dr. Kempster's cross examination, his testimony not being shaken.

Dr. Hecktoen is a man comparatively young but is recognized in Chicago as eminent authority on post mortems. He makes the conducting of autopsies his principal work and has been a witness in many of the notable cases in Chicago during the last few years. He conducted the autopsy on the murdered girl in the Painter case in Chicago and was an important witness for the state. Dr. Hecktoen testified that the facts stated satisfied him that Mrs. Stone met death by strangulation, the strangulation being caused by force applied to the upper part of the chest and lower part of the neck. He was well satisfied of this in view of all the circumstances. On cross examination he said the post mortem examination was not as complete as he would have made. It was not complete enough, in itself, to exclude all possibilities that death was from some other cause. Examination of the brain would have been necessary to absolutely exclude all other causes. In forming his opinion that Mrs. Stone's death was caused by strangulation he had been guided by all the facts in the case, not by the medical examination alone.

Stories of Other Witnesses.

Other medical testimony taken before Drs. Kempster and Hecktoen took the stand was that of Dr. Henry Palmer on re examination and Dr. L. J. Barrows. Dr. Palmer said he did not think that the sub-clavian vein could have been ruptured by pressure applied to the clavicle. Dr. Barrows' testimony was that he believed Mrs. Stone to have been dead when her body was put in the cistern. He was cross-examined as to whether dislocation of the collar bone would not result from force applied to the back of the shoulders and he said that it might.

George Lentz, a neighbor of the Stone's, gave details of the assault on Daniel Stone.

William Saxby testified as to Ashton's statements about Mrs. Stone. Ashton said to him on one occasion, referring to Mrs. Stone: "There's the d—d old bell cat, now." Ashton had talked with the witness about Stone's extensive property and had claimed to be the heir to whom most of it would fall. A recess was taken pending his cross-examination.

Go in and buy a pair of socks, a handkerchief, a pair of gloves, or something you need, cheap.

India Tea.

England leads in the consumption of this favorite. Having used the past year many millions pounds in excess of the Japan product we desired to be the pioneers of Wisconsin in introducing India tea. We were delayed however, by the exorbitant profit demanded by the Chicago firm who took the "agency" after the close of the World's Fair. They said you can sell it for $1 and we will charge you seventy cents a pound. They didn't say how much it cost them, but we know and willingly sent an import order for the goods in bulk. This tea is now in stock, and has "no superior" in the market. We ask you but sixty cents a pound for this tea, and will forfeit $100 if it is surpassed by any brand sold in packages at one dollar a pound. GRUBB BROS.

The ordinance granting a franchise to the Wisconsin Automatic Telephone Company was adopted by the council last night. The form of the franchise Mayor Thoroughgood announced, prevents the company erecting poles in the public streets except on special permission of the council, which must be obtained after presentation of plans of the proposed lines.

A bill of $265 from Dr. J. B. Whiting for professional attendance and medicine supplied the Behling family; one from Sheriff Bear, $180.40, for boarding city prisoners; one from L. Paul, $60, for earth furnished for the South Main street grade were referred to the finance committee.

John Kruse was confirmed as special until April 5. The saloon license issued to Charles Horn was transferred to H. C. Kath.

Alderman Child spoke of numerous complaints against the water company rules. He understood that the council had no power to act; that consumers must go to the courts for redress.

Alderman Kueck presented an order for a gas lamp at the corner of Mary and Hyatt street, and an oil lamp at the corner of Mary and Walker street. Referred to gas committee. Orders were adopted as follows: By Alderman Kueck—To repair Fourth ward fountain. By Alderman McLean—Directing the chief of police to remove the pole at Terrace and Bluff street. By Alderman Rich—For the payment of claims against South Bluff street grading fund. By Alderman Kueck—Granting the use of council chamber to the butchers for holding a meeting on Thursday evening.

REED HAD A CROWDED HOUSE. Comedians Greeted with One of the Largest Houses of the Season.

Reed's Comedians opened a week's engagement at the Myers Grand last evening. Notwithstanding the bad weather and the fact that the charity ball was on hand, they were greeted with one of the largest houses in the history of the Myers Grand. The play presented was "Our Strategists," and it was admirably handled by the company. Each and every member is a star in his or her line, and Mr. Reed has surrounded himself with a company that is sure to draw in any city that is fortunate enough to have them as entertainers. Their efforts were rewarded by liberal applause by the large and appreciative audience.

Tonight they will present "Divorce" and it is useless to say they will have another large audience. They will remain an entire week, with a change of program for each evening, and the citizens of Janesville will have an opportunity to see some of the best amusement on the road at popular prices.

DANIEL WEBSTER.

Joined With Jenny Lind in Singing "Hail Columbia."

Jenny Lind gave a concert at Washington during a session of congress, and sent invitations to the president, Mr. Fillmore, members of the cabinet, Mr. Clay and other distinguished men. The Russian minister, Mr. Bodisco, had given a dinner party the same evening, so that the concert was half over before the president, the congressmen and the cabinet officers entered. The gentlemen were received with applause, as Fillmore, Webster, Clay and Crittenden were always received, and when the applause had subsided Jenny Lind struck out singing "Hail Columbia."

At the close of the first verse Webster's patriotism boiled over; he could still no longer, and rising, he added his deep, sonorous, bass voice to the flute-like notes of the great singer in the stirring chorus.

Never in the whole course of Jenny Lind's career did she ever hear one-half of the applause as that with which her song and Webster's voice in the chorus were received. Mrs. Webster pulled at her husband's coat-tail to make him stop, but it was no earthly use; he kept on, joining in at the close of each verse. The narrator of the incident says: "I have seen Rubini, Lablache and the two Grisis on the stage at one time, but such a happy conjunction in the national air as Jenny Lind's soprano and Daniel Webster's bass I have never seen before. At the close of the song Webster made her such a bow as Chesterfield would have deemed a fortune for his son, and which eclipsed D'Orsay's best."

Jenny Lind courted to the floor, the audience applauded and Webster, determined not to be outdone in politeness, bowed again; Miss Lind recourtesied, the audience reapplauded, and this was repeated several times.

FIRST AMERICAN DUEL.

It Took Place in Boston Between Two Young Bloods.

Speaking of dueling, it may or may not please one to know that like many another custom, good and bad, it made its eis-Atlantic beginning in the town of Boston. It was early candle lighting, July 3, 1738. The theater of the first American duel, or rather its foundation, was the Royal Exchange tavern, on King street, now State. On the evening of that day there met at this hotel Masters Benjamin Woodbridge and Henry Phillips. This latter young gentleman was of the tribe which finally furnished Wendell Phillips. Both were what the vernacular of to-day would describe as blooded.

These young gentlemen, both under twenty, bore swords on their unconquerable hips, and incidentally a stiff allowance of Medford rum in their stomachs. Thus by virtue of this unhappy conjunction of rum and rapier, were they in the very mood and frame for war.

One of them, at this Royal Exchange tavern that unfortunate night, revealed views touching the other that no gentleman with his blade in his belt and his rum beneath it would tolerate for a moment. It was Woodbridge who was insulted. He suggested Boston common, hard by, as a place to put immediate honor to test. Thither they fared, making sans doubt a trail like a corkscrew from the effects of rum and wrath combined. There was plenty of light. The moon which, whether it holds its lantern while lovers meet or bathes a Tennyson on his bed of death, can always be relied on to unwinkingly play its part, lent its mild touch to the combat.

The pot-valorous young men drew and engaged. There was a brief clashing, a spark or two; they closed. Then young Woodbridge staggered back. He had inaugurated the virtuous and profitable duel with his life. They found his cold young body on the common next morning. He had received satisfaction.

A Foe TO SHOPLIFTERS.

A New York Girl Who Acts as Detective in a Dry Goods Store.

An enterprising and intrepid young woman is Miss Louise Alexander of New York city, who occupies the rather novel position of detective in a large dry goods store. During the holidays she made the record of capturing nine alleged thieves within a week and saw them all held for trial by the police judge. Miss Alexander is a slight brunette who discharges her duties with quiet, unobtrusive grace, but we have not yet heard that any young men have gone shoplifting in her bailiwick expressly for the pleasure of being caught by the fair detective.

Miss Alexander was engaged through a detective agency and had hardly got her bearings in the store when she caught a man and woman. They were Richard Johnson and Frances Kline. Miss Alexander watched them at the ring counter. The woman wore a hat and looked like a purchaser. Several trays of rings were handed out. While the woman was engaging the saleswoman the man slipped three rings into his overcoat pocket. Then he bought a cheap ring and started out. Miss Alexander waited till Johnson got out on the sidewalk to give him no excuse. Then she told him he was wanted inside. At once his hand dived into his pocket, with the thief's first impulse to throw away stolen property. But the little hand of the 19-year-old detective clutched his wrist. "Keep your hand there," she said. When a policeman came, the girl's nervous grip unclashed, and in the pocket the three rings were found. Johnson was sent to the island for five months. The woman, pleading innocence, got off.

Miss Alexander seldom has much trouble with the men, but the female shoplifters sometimes show fight, as did the handsome actress whom she caught stealing rings the other day. As the woman walked out of the store she was approached by the detective, who said, "The proprietor wishes to see you in his office."

"The words were hardly out of her mouth when the young woman turned on her heel, and raising an umbrella she carried in her hand brought it down on Miss Alexander's head. Fortunately the detective wore a bonnet, and the blow, while ruining it for wearing purposes, did no further damage. The customers in the store were at once thrown into wild excitement, not knowing the cause of the commotion, and crowded about the young detective and her prisoner, whose threats, tears and entreaties were of no avail. The rings were found in her possession, and she was lugged off to the station house.

Miss Alexander says she depends most upon her natural gift for reading dishonesty in faces. "I can always tell by the eye," she says, "if there is anything wrong in a person. If I had to depend solely upon seeing articles stolen without any tips from the thieves' faces, I am afraid I would have a hard time of it."

Comfort From the Conductor.

The train had stopped at a station and several men had alighted, as was their custom, to stretch their legs on the platform, and when it started again one of the men, who had strayed a little too far off, was left behind. In a minute or two there was a loud scream and a woman rushed up to the conductor and exclaimed excitedly: "You left my husband behind at that last station!"

"Never mind, madam," replied the official; "calm yourself. We shall be at Chicago in three hours and then you can get another husband."—Judge.

THEIVES WERE OUT IN THE NIGHT FOG.

EFFORT MADE TO ENTER J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS' STORE.

Frank George, Who Sleeps in The Store, Was Awakened And Frightened The Gang Away—Clothes Lines on Milwaukee Avenue And Court Streets Stripped.

Thieves tried the back door of J. M. Bostwick & Sons store about 2 o'clock this morning. They awakened Frank George by their efforts, and as he walked across the store they ran.

Another gang emptied Third ward clothes lines. At the home of Myron Green, on Milwaukee avenue, the thieves stripped the line of the week's wash, taking everything clean. At J. M. Bostwick's on Court street, they did not make as big a haul, but cleaned the line of a lot of towels and underwear. The thieves are believed to have worked with a horse and buggy.

FEATHERS AND PLUMES.

Brutal Way in Which They Are Torn From Ostriches in Cairo.

I should like to hear from the Society for the Protection of Birds, why the only birds' feathers the wearing of which they countenance are the plumes of the ostrich. A lady tells me that she has declined an invitation to join the society because it does not protect the ostrich, and in justification of her decision she gives the following account of plucking ostriches on a feather farm. If the facts are accurate I think that they fully prove her case.

"The good ladies who belong to this society, and who condemn as 'cruel' the simple mercy of death, should go to the ostrich farm near Cairo, Egypt—I believe the largest there is—and hear from those in charge a description of the annual feather gathering. The first year a bird is plucked he can easily be caught and thrown by one man. The feathers are then wrenched, bleeding, from his tortured body, after which the marabout and down are torn off.

"After one experience the birds can only be caught with the utmost difficulty, and it takes six men to throw an old bird. 'It is very hard work plucking,' we are told 'the feathers are bedded so tight in the flesh' I asked if it would not do as well to clip off the feathers close, and was told that the dealers will only buy those with the perfect quill. All the undressed feathers offered for sale on the farm had blood on the quills, and we were told that when the annual plucking takes place the shrieks of the birds can be heard to a great distance on the still air.

SERVANTS IN INDIA.

They Save Annoyance—How to Prevent Their Stealing.

Domestic life in India is without the annoyance of the servant question. You never need tell a servant what you want done in that country; they seem to know it by intuition. The ordinary household has twelve servants—a cook, a waiter, a sort of valet de chambre, and, if you have two horses, two grooms; one man to run before you when you go out riding, and take care of your horse; another man whose business is to collect for your horse's feed the grass which grows in a vine-like manner upon the roads. Then in summer time you require three to four men, who work the large fans or "punkas" over you night and day while you are waking, and while you are sleeping; then last, but not least, a watchman.

This last institution is a peculiar one. If you did not have him you would be liable to find something stolen every night. Strangest of all, the only man who is a successful watchman must be a thief—the caste of a thief. He makes no pretensions of being anything else, but so long as you have him in your employ nothing will ever be stolen.

while the native Indians are very dishonest, the only way in which to keep your valuables safe is to give them into their hands for keeping. If I locked $500 in my chest I would be sure that some time or other one of my servants would steal it; but if I should give the money to a servant and tell him to keep it for me he would guard it with his life.

A FRUGAL CANINE THIEF.

And an Old Darkey Made Its Conduct the Basis of a Prediction.

George S. Kenward of Spokane, has unlimited faith in the sagacity of dogs. The other day, he says, a large Newfoundland wandered into a meat market on Second avenue. The animal first satisfied himself that nobody was looking, and quietly abstracted a bologna sausage from the show window. Then with a nonchalant strut he wandered across the street and buried it on a vacant lot.

Mr. Kenward and several other parties secreted themselves and watched the dog's operations. He would walk leisurely past the market and look in. If the occupants were not looking in the direction of the front door he would dash in, seize a bologna, cross the street and cache it. This was repeated three times, when the thief discovered that he was observed and fled. Search revealed six large sausages stored away for future emergencies. An old colored man who was present advanced the theory that the dog's conduct was a sure sign of hard times.

"Take my advice," he said, "an' put padlocks on yo' chicken house doahs, fo' dar'll be er pow'ful sight of misde-meanorin' gwine on, sho'."

Hospital Patients on Strike.

The very latest thing in strikes occurred recently in Edinburgh. It appears that the patients in one of the wards of a hospital, becoming tired of being examined night after night, went on a strike and absolutely refused to allow themselves to be further examined. The medical press in commenting on the strike says that one must admit that their contention was not an unreasonable one, for although submission to the exigencies of hospital practice is the only way that patients can materially repay benefits received, to have twenty students, more or less, sounding them at night is apt to lead to worse things than mere loss of temper.

Fifty-Two Years Between Two Brothers.

Thomas Chandler, a Lyons Farms, N. J., farmer, is the father of two boys, the eldest being 60 years of age and the youngest 8. While Farmer Chandler's 8-year-old son is going to school at Lyons Farm, his 60-year-old boy is a prosperous business man of Vineland, N. J., and the latter's 40-year-old son is a bank director.

A World's Fair Calendar.

Anyone who has ever seen one of the "Keeping Everlastingly At It" Calendars issued by N. W. Ayer & Son Newspaper Advertising Agents, Philadelphia, is ever afterward very hard to please.

That for 1894 is a rare combination of beauty and utility—large enough to be seen, handsome enough to be admired and sensible enough to be respected. He would indeed be a queer person who would be unwilling to "keep steady company" with it for a year.

We would call this "a World's fair edition" because of its numerous references to that wonderful event. Its ingenious suggestions on this subject will doubtless be helpful to many who visited "the white city."

It is easy to credit the statement that an increasing number of these calendars is sold each year. The price delivered (and well delivered,) post paid to any address is 25 cents—evidently a tariff for protection only, as at this figure there can be no profit in it for the publishers.

ALONE.

I think that I am quite alone
Since that strange night, the mystic night
That hung
Tranced 'mid her stars to listen, when, mine own,
Those few short words arose from heart to tongue,
And as you whispered them life changed to be something rapt, glorified, sublime, to me.

The soft gloom hung about us like a veil.
Only the glimmer in the western skies
Crept in to show your lips were passion pale,
To read the rapture in your half closed eyes
And then those words were spoken, and the rest
Was hushed in happy silence on your breast.

Morning and daylight swept away the dream.
Life clasped her fetters and resumed her sway,
Only a soft, sweet knowledge, like a gleam,
Lingered around each hour of all the day.
And even the bitter ring of the farewell
With a gentler note upon the spirit fell.

And since, my darling, though broad leagues
of space
Are spread between us, though dim, dull and mute
Is life without the sunshine of thy face,
Is life without the echo of your foot,
So all encompassed by your love am I
That my blank ways are trod contentedly.

Since in all evil things I think how you Would soothe them—in all happy things I think
How you would prize them—set to measure true,
There is no discord in our perfect link.
With thought, faith, hope, with life and love
your own,
How can your chosen ever feel "alone?"
—All the Year Round.

HOW HE ESCAPED.

During the middle ages the country now called Belgium was known by the name of Flanders, or perhaps it would be better to say that Flanders was the largest of the several feudal provinces included in that territory. Latterly, however, Flanders comprised not only what is known as modern Belgium, but also a large part of Holland and northern France. The ruler of the country was called an earl, and in the latter part of the fourteenth century Louis de Malatin wore the coronet, which he had inherited from a long line of earls, all of whom lay sleeping in glory in the abbey of Blandigni.

The proud and wealthy burghers chafed under the sovereignty of the feudal lords, and in Ghent particularly this feeling of independence was very strong. The earl, who noted the popular disaffection, made haste therefore to depart from Ghent and removed his residence to the city of Bruges, where he had a strong castle.

Now, Earl Louis was neither a wise statesman nor a brave general, and he foolishly augmented the public ill will by endeavoring to rob Ghent of its superior advantages. Four noble rivers supplied the city with its commercial and manufacturing facilities. Bruges had no river, and so a body of dikers were sent to construct a canal by which the waters of Ghent might be conveyed to Bruges. But the men of Ghent fell upon them and put them to death.

Earl Louis then dispatched another company, which met with the same fate. These were decided acts of rebellion, but the men of Ghent were in the right, and the earl was in the wrong. Kings and princes very seldom stop, however, to think about the justice of anything. They care only to secure their own pleasure.

The earl of Flanders was very angry with the men of Ghent, and he summoned an army by which he hoped to conquer his rebellious subjects. He overcame them in one battle, but in the next he met with defeat and was forced to retreat to Bruges. Here he was besieged by the enemy, led by the brave and energetic Philip of Arteveld, a young man of great promise.

Earl Louis did not feel much alarmed at the success of the enemy, for the strong walls of Bruges seemed to laugh to scorn all attacks of a besieger. But there were traitors within, and one night the earl was aroused from sleep with the tidings that the city gates were opened. He instantly summoned his soldiers, and mounting his warhorse rode forth to meet the foe, shouting the warcry of his race:

"Flanders for the lion! Flanders for the earl!"

He was preceded by torchbearers and trumpeters, and a man bearing a banner on which was the famous Flemish lion wrought in gold.

And now up the streets marched the men of Ghent, shouting: "Death to the earl! Down with feudal tyranny!"

"My lord," said Robert de Mareschant, a near and loyal friend, "march not against them—they outnumber us 10 to 1."

"Flanders for the lion!" cried the earl. But when he saw the numerous and well appointed host and heard the murderous cries his heart misgave him.

"What shall I do, Sir Robert?" he asked.

"Order your torches out, then exchange clothes with me and get out of the city if you can," replied the faithful officer.

So the torches were extinguished, and hurrying to a darkened stable the earl and the esquire exchanged clothing.

While this was occurring the rebels, who had seen the flash of the golden coronet on the earl's helmet and the sheen of his velvet mantle under the glow of the torches, were rushing in swift pursuit.

"Hasten for your life!" whispered Sir Robert. "I am the earl and you De Mareschant."

But this deceit was quickly discovered, and wishing for no man's life save the earl's the rebels hastened in all directions after the illustrious fugitive.

Hard pressed, for he saw his enemies before and behind him, he rapped at the door of a low cottage. His knock was responded to by a poorly dressed woman, who held a babe in her arms.

"I am Louis, thy sovereign, and evil men seek my life," cried the earl. "Give me shelter and refuge, and St. Mary will reward you."

"I am only a poor widow, but such as I have I give you. My lord, enter."

It was a poor, thatched roofed hut with only one room. The loft above was reached by a ladder. Never before had the powerful Earl of Flanders entered so miserable an abode. The woman conducted him to the loft and showed him six children asleep on a bed of straw.

"Conceal thyself, and quickly, for I hear thy pursuers already at the door," she said, pointing to the straw.

The earl hastily crept in among the slumbering children, taking the youngest one in his arms. There was no little quarreling at first.

"How big brother Max has grown," said one little girl as she snuggled close beside the mighty potentate who had taken refuge in that rude bed.

"Why can he not come to bed earlier and not awake us?" grumbled a flaxen haired boy.

But they soon became quiet, and the earl lay still with Gretchen slumbering beside him and flaxen haired Hans snoring fearlessly.

Meanwhile a loud pounding had summoned the widow to the door again.

"Where is the man who has just entered thy hut?" demanded a savage Gantois.

"Art thou not mistaken?" she answered. "I am a widow and live her alone with my children."

"Nay, but we saw the light upon the way as it glared forth from the open door."

"I did but open it to throw something into the street. If there be a man within, search and find him."

The man casts a quick glance within. He saw the ladder leading to the loft, and taking the light from the widow's hands he hurriedly ascended. A row of children huddled together was all that he saw, and he descended again. "The woman is right," he muttered to the crowd. "There is only a nest of children sleeping together like pigs in a sty, and there isn't room enough for an ant to hide, much less the Earl of Flanders."

Uttering cries of balked vengeance, the throng of White Hoods, as they were called, pushed on, while the earl, with a thankful heart for his wonderful preservation, went to sleep in the company of the young children. Sores wearied by fatigue, he slept as soundly in the mud hovel of the poor widow as though he had lain in one of his own palace chambers.

The next morning was the Sabbath, and the great earl was awakened by the wondering cries of the children.

"How funny! Brother Max has come to bed with his clothes on," cried the little girl, who had slept all night in the arms of her illustrious bedfellow.

"Hush, Minna," cried Max himself. "It is some friend of mother's. I heard him last night when he came in."

"Nay, but I am a friend to you all," said Earl Louis. "From this hour count the Earl of Flanders your protector."

The children were hushed to silence at the mention of that great name, and the earl presently descended to the lower room, where he found the pious widow singing her Sunday morning hymn.

"And who art thou, to whom Louis of Flanders owes his life?" asked the earl.

"I am the widow of Dolph the Diker, whom the wicked men of Ghent slew when he was at work for his lawful sovereign."

"I cannot restore to thee thy husband," said the earl, "but I never shall forget thy generous kindness in risking your own life to shelter me. Here is a purse of gold crowns, all that I can give thee now, but—"

"God forbid that I should take it when thou needest the gold more than I," interrupted the woman as she put the purse back into his hands. "Thou art not yet out of danger, and it has cost us nothing to give the shelter."

"When I have my rights again, the widow of Dolph the Diker will not regret that she entertained her sovereign," replied the earl.

He staid all that day with the widow and her family, keeping a better Sabbath, I dare say, than he had for a long time before, and the following night he succeeded in making his escape out of the city, disguised in the jerkin and marsh boots in which poor Dolph used to work at the canals. He reached Lisle, one of his loyal towns, in safety, and an army soon gathered around him quite large enough to enable him to take the field against the rebellious White Hoods.

In a great battle he completely defeated the Gantois, and Philip of Arteveld, their leader, was slain. Ghent was delivered up to him, and Flanders once more passed under the sway of its rightful lord.

When Earl Louis returned to Bruges, he richly rewarded his faithful preserver, the widow Mechie, who was enabled to pass her last days in comfort and luxury. Max became a page in the great castle, and all the other children, from Hans to the laughing prattler, Gretchen, became the proteges of the earl who owed his life to their mother's generous protection.—Clinton Montague in Philadelphia Times.

A Lot of People have a horse or horses that they don't want. We want one or two carloads—say a carload of good work horses and a carload of good drivers. We have building lots that are sure to advance from 10 to 20 per cent. within two years; we have a good many of them; we will exchange enough of them to pay for horses enough to fill two cars. If you prefer houses we have six good ones for sale and will take half the price of any of them in horses.

We must buy this stock right and will sell you the real estate very low. Call and see us.

Yours very truly,
GEO. L. & SARAH H. CARRINGTON.

Something that we do.

We buy and sell farms. We exchange city property for farms. We buy and sell city and village property or we exchange city property for any kind of personal property. We buy for cash or real estate any kind of stocks of goods. If you are in the dry goods, hardware, grocery, jewelry, crockery, boots and shoes, or general merchandise business and want to get out, you can sell out to us and get cash and good real estate. We loan money on real estate at right rates. We make loans for other parties. Whatever you have, whatever you want to do in the way of dealing, you go wrong unless you come to us. It seems so to us.
